

Cheer Up - Things Could Be Worse

Some Times We Can't Decide Whether To

Laugh or Cry or Scream in Frustration

Every time we think things could not get worse

in our nations Capitol, They get worse.

Poor Joe Biden. Members of our Presidents own Political Party are beginning to view him as "well past his best if used by date". Sort of like that dish of tuna and noodle casserole you left in the back of the refrigerator..... two months ago.

President Biden began his career as a Political Prodigy at a prestigious college where, many believe, he earned a Masters Degree in Plagiarism and a Doctors Degree in Prevarication before launching his career as a Senator who became a Vice President and now President.

Along the way he tamed the town bully with his steely eyed glare. In fairness it must be remembered that Corn Pop had been warned that Young Joe was a Third Degree Black Belt Plagiarist.

Tough as nails Joe also was at Teddy Roosevelts side as they charged up San Juan Hill during the Spanish American War.

Working man Joe also managed to make time for careers in, among other things, Long Haul 18 Wheel Truck Driving and working deep beneath the earth as a "Hard Rock" Coal Miner. Truly a man of many talents.

Building his reputation for inter-racial relations, Joe studied at the knee of his long time friend and ideological soul mate, Democratic Senator Robert Byrd from West Virginia, a confidant and counselor with a long history in public and private service, including serving as a Grand Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan. From his friend Senator Byrd, then Senator Biden seems to have gotten his foundational knowledge in Critical Race Theory.

Serving with our President is his Vice President Kamala Harris who has become nearly invisible and being kept out of the public eye.

Her "Goodwill" trip to Central America was a political and media disaster with large crowds telling her to "Go Home". Poor Joe, not much help here. The mainstream media has shown one photo of Kamala & her husband kissing. Both wearing a mask. Take that where you will. But as Joe would say "Come on man!"

Other players in the White House Team include Anthony J. Blinken playing the part of Secretary of State. I was always of the belief that the Secretary of States job was to be a Cheerleader for the United States, making sure our interests were protected worldwide and spokesman for all that is good about the United States. Secretary Blinken seems to be carrying on the Obama worldwide apology tour and going "hat in hand" to the United Nations begging for forgiveness for our (non-existent) Systemic Racism.

Other members of the Biden "team" include Defense Secretary Lloyd Austin and Army General Mark A. Milley, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. A sort of "Frick & Frack" twosome of Critical Race Theory "Kool-Aid" drinkers. Both bent on turning the best fighting force in the world into a band of "hand-wringing" apologists for America's greatness. If I were still in the military (see closing comments), I would be ashamed to serve under either of them.

Closing Comments

On a more serious note and in closing I will share my own experience while in the Military. I spent ten years total in the Army National Guard. Six of those years in a Combat Infantry Unit and four years in a Medical Brigade. In all of those years I do not remember there ever being a single instance of anything resembling a "racial" issue. I served with members of all colors and all races. We were soldiers. Not white soldiers or black soldiers or brown soldiers or oriental soldiers. Just soldiers. We served together, slept together, ate together and had each others back. When we were called into a riot situation we stood shoulder to shoulder, color did not matter, in our minds we were all "green". To this day if I visit a military hospital or other place of service, I feel a kinship, comradery and spirit of belonging.

In my world if I have a problem with someone, it is personal, race is never an issue.
