

Pull The Plug

Listening to "Colonel" Muammar al-Gaddafi at the United Nations I noticed a couple of things. He looked and sounded like he was on a one day pass from the Shady Dunes Home For Dictators Beyond Their Prime. Did you notice the papers he kept shuffling around in front of him with the scrawled childish looking (crayon?) notes on them? The rambling, hour and a half long, incoherent speech seemed to have only two points. One was his view that all nations are exactly equal, with Libya being the most equal. The other was his vision that the United Nations should be moved to Africa (Libya maybe?).

I will support "unplugging" the U.N. and shipping its carcass to Libya. There this broken down stage can provide a circus clown platform for Loud Mouthed Tyrants like Hugo Chavez of Venezuela or Hate Mongers like Mahmoud Ahmadinejad (King Rat) of Iran to spew their drivel to the Kool-Aid drinking followers of failed ideologies

There is one condition. Namely, that the U. S. drop its own membership in this inept, impotent, mostly America hating club, composed of too many wannabe crybabies with their hands out for goodies and who vote against the United States every chance they get.

And if they continue to come to the United States looking for Aid may I suggest we give the good "Colonel" and all his kind a tub of Kool-Aid and paper cups?

Forget Unplugging Granny. Lets unplug the U.N.
